Dear Dip,

Thank you for referring me to your most valued friends, clients and colleagues.

I believe that I am very well prepared to offer the ability, experience and attention to detail to successfully guide and assist clients through the process of design and its realization. For an introduction, the pages that follow will give you an overview of the work I've been involved with to date.

I began my career in a small architecture firm that specialized in historic preservation work, and bring a well-rounded background that includes residential, commercial and institutional design. My experience is hands-on: I translate the client's initial goals into a responsive and holistic concept and follow through with construction documents to final inspection. In this effort, I coordinate the work of designers, builders, consultants and crafts-persons, and work directly with community groups and government review and inspection officials.

On the commercial side, I have most enjoyed creating and transforming offices and retail spaces, helping the employees, sales force and customer be on the same page from their first step in the door. Institutional projects that inspire me most have been those that inspire others: churches, libraries, theatres and schools.

Throughout my career, I have felt it essential for me as a designer to continue my working relationship with the home. No matter what I have been involved with in design, nothing matters more to a client than their home. And rightfully so.

As a designer, the home offers something that other project types do not. The home is by definition often the nest egg as well as the nest. I take this responsibility seriously: the work must "work" of course, but also allow life to be lived naturally and with grace. The design ought to be both enduring, and endearing. It ought to speak both to, and of, the occupants. So, it is as much a pleasure to design a good house as to live in one.

I look forward to serving you and your friends. As always, my policy is to offer a complimentary initial consultation at the home or place of business.

Thanks again for your trust and consideration.

Kindest regards,

Shawn Glen Pierson

Professional employment

- 2002-now Architétc. Washington DC and McLean VA Founder and Principal
- “Architect-cetera” is committed to providing inspired and exceptional design with and for each client. We promise more than architecture through a collaborative process that integrates the talents and vision of a team of dedicated professionals to bring a holistic response to each design inquiry. This may include architecture, but welcomes and draws upon interior design, engineering, landscape architecture, lighting, graphics, the digital arts and other design-led disciplines as suggested and informed by the project at hand.
- The Architétc. team provides one-stop efficiency for the client along with seamless continuity for the project. We offer an appreciation and higher awareness of the newest technologies and of our relationship to the environment. Our definition of “sustainable” in a project is not just energy efficient, but energy wise.
- We seek, in partnership with our clients, to raise the bar.
- 1988-2002 Shawn Glen Pierson Design Potomac and Garrett Park MD Principal
- Throughout my career, from early “moonlighting” to recent explorations in design theory, sustainability issues and technological innovation, I have built a portfolio of quality work on my own as well as in consultation with leading architectural, interior design, design-build and development firms.
- 2000-2002 Rill & Decker Architects PC Bethesda MD Staff Architect
- As a senior designer in this small residential-only design firm, we utilized the skills of only the finest area builders to create one-of-a-kind, highly crafted custom homes for sophisticated and discriminating clients. The firm was committed to early integration of state-of-the-art computer “virtual building” applications, enabling advanced three-dimensional modeling studies and presentations throughout the design process.
- 1998-2000 Duane, Cahill, Mullineaux & Mullineaux Architects Gaithersburg MD Design Architect
- With this firm having well over fifty years continuous experience specializing in the design of religious and educational buildings, I was responsible for supervising the construction of significant public school projects, as well being an integral part of the design team for school and church buildings throughout Maryland and Virginia. My primary individual focus was the development of an integrated approach to good design/best practice to encompass all firm processes.
- 1989-1991 National Development Corporation Washington DC Designer, Construction Manager
- I served as in-house designer for a developer of very high-end speculative and custom residential projects, in which we offered uncompromised quality of materials and craftsmanship.
- 1987-1988 Hunter/Miller + Associates Environmental Design Alexandria VA Staff Architect
- With this mid-size environmental design and corporate interiors office, I gained valuable experience learning the vocabulary and palette of commercial interior design. While benefiting from the firm’s industry leadership and early advocacy of computer technology in architectural practice, I also studied their disciplined approach to the business of running an efficient and highly productive design studio.
- 1983-1987 Richard Ridley + Associates Architecture/Urban Design Washington DC Senior Associate
- From Intern to Senior Associate in this small design-intensive firm specializing in residential, adaptive re-use, mixed-use and historic preservation work, I received a solid hands-on foundation in all aspects of the practice of Architecture and in the process of design. Richard Ridley + Associates demonstrated a sustained commitment to community-responsive, socially responsible pro-bono work.
